TRUE LOVE: David, 31, and Rachel, 28 with seven month old daugher, Sophie at the university where the couple met 10 years ago

University of romance

Two students whose romance developed the same year the University of Northampton was created, are celebrating theirs and the university's 10th anniversary.

The University of Northampton was granted full university status in 2005 and it was while studying there that David Proctor and Rachel Mears met.

Neither of them had initially intended to come to Northampton, but call it fate or kismet, they arrived and on their second week at the university started a romance which is still blooming today.

Seven months ago, the couple who live in Northampton, had their first child,a little girl called Sophie who is a true Northamptonian.

Police to probe punching video

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Police are investigating a video which appears to show excessive force being used to restrain an autistic teenager.

The video, which is going viral after being shared on Facebook, shows Northampton resident Tristan Perry, 17, with two police officers.

When Tristan turns towards the officers after having his back to them, they grab hold of him, push him down and restrain him.

One officer then appears to punch him four times during the attempt.

The teenager's mum has described the incident as 'disgusting'.

Editor's Letter

We must be ready for more than we want to see . . .

Once again social media has brought us shocking images to mull over this week.

Yesterday it was a shooting in America. A few days ago it was the devastating plane crash near Brighton.

And also at the weekend it was it was an incident involving Northamptonshire Police and the aggression used to restrain a teenager who it was later discovered is on the autistic spectrum.

More than ever we are seeing things we don't usually see, thanks to the likes of Facebook and Twitter.

These unexpected insights invite us to jump to conclusions about what we are seeing that may not be correct or fair.

It's hard not to have an emotional reaction to these kind of events when modern technology is turning us all into casual eye witnesses to life's traumas.

In fact, it is probably healthy to have that reaction but it must be equally important to recognise that our first response is most likely that: an emotional response.

> "We can end up believing we are entitled to live free from anything that might challenge our view of the world"

In some cases we will recoil from what we are seeing and we might have a kneejerk desire to see something censored because it disturbs us.

In other cases we might get angry or inspired and feel like everyone should see what we have seen.

One reaction can very often be the flipside of the other depending on your point of view,

There is little doubt that all this material makes our lives more complicated and perhaps stressful.

And so it should.

If we are not careful we can end up believing we are entitled to live a cosseted existence, free from anything that might upset or challenge our view of the world.

Especially us in the privileged western world, raised on comforting broadcast media with a 9pm watershed.

The real world doesn't have watersheds and it often doesn't make sense. We just have to deal with it.

Steve Scoles

Come on Percy fly away home

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A Northampton family fear they are stuck with a racing pigeon who has decided to make their living room its new home.

And despite numerous attempts to get it to fly back home, the wayward bird just keeps on coming back.

Percy the pigeon first flew into the home of the Riches family – made up of husband and wife, Pete and Anya, and their two-year-old daughter, Imogen – in Abington two weeks ago.

After flying through the open back door of their home, on Purser Road, and sitting on their living room table for several seconds, Anya managed to flap the feathered creature out of the house.

But just two hours later, the boomerang bird had come back, and perched itself on their doorstep.

BOOMERANG BIRD: Percy doesn't seem to want to leave

"It was so bizarre," Pete said. "The bird just kept on strolling in and out of the house through our back door. Our daughter was absolutely loving it, but we weren't as keen!

"Its owner said that it was due to fly to Lincoln from its home in London, and back again. But obviously it got lost."

Pete then decided to take the bird to Sixfields in a cardboard box, and release it there. But halfway through his journey back home, the bird was back in the living room.

Secondary school teacher Pete, who is now on holiday with his family in Devon, said: "We just can't seem to get rid of it, it is really funny.

"It has clearly fallen in love with our home and doesn't want to go. But me and Anya want it to go away – so we hope by the time we go back home it will have gone."

MP's day out with ambulance crew

A Northampton MP has praised the 'dedication' of the East Midlands Ambulance Service after spending a day on call with one of their crews in the town.

David Mackintosh, the MP for Northampton South, spent a 12-hour shift with an ambulance crew on Tuesday to learn more about the work they do and the daily challenges they face.

During the day, Mr Mackintosh watched the crew attend over half a dozen incidents, including a man who took an overdose, an elderly woman who was dizzy and short of breath, and a person who was bleeding after a fall.

You can see what else he did in the full story online.

Dedicated follower of fashion

Lawrence John finds out more about the role of a personal shopper from Lorna Wiltshire

Styles may come and go but style never goes out of fashion.

One of the people responsible for keeping us up to date with what style would suit us the best is personal stylist Lorna Wiltshire, who runs her own business called You & Your Style.

Having a sense of style and flair has ben in Lorna's blood since she was four years old.

Even at that young age she was demonstrating her flair for fashion by putting forward her ideas to style her mum's wardrobe.

This was merely the start as when she when she left school she went to an independent college in Marlow to learn about creative design and fashion.

This led her to working as a stylist for Top Shop and then she landed a role with online clothes retailer, Brora.

When she moved to Northamptonshire she became involved in the Rushden Town Centre Partnership, where she became the chairwoman.

She stood down from his role but stayed on the board before leaving four years ago to return to world of fashion and concentrate on her full time job as a personal stylist.

Lorna, 35, said: "What I like to do is help people shop and help them to feel better about themselves. I find this such a rewarding experience to help them find their personal style. The three main areas I am looking at for my customers are body shape, colouring and their personal style.

"One of the important aspects is not to project my style onto them but create a wardrobe or interior design space personal to them.

"My business has evolved from personal shopping and styling to interior design.

"A company got in contact with me to create an interior which would represent their brand.

"Some people come to me once while others come three or four times a year. They come to see me for various reasons, such as they have lost their confidence to buy bright colours. They might say something looks good on a co-worker or a friend but they would never buy it for themselves.

"One of the other reasons they make contact with me is they do not have the time to shop for themselves. It helps get them out of a rut and make them understand where they are going wrong with their colours. It is about mixing colours and not being scared and not afraid to experiment. It is part of helping them build a style and gives them a fresh start."

Lorna is keen to pass her enthusiasm onto young people and is holding a three- day course at Barton Hall near Kettering from September 28-30.

Two charged after baby killed by dog

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

The mother and grandmother of a baby killed by a banned breed dog in Northants have been charged in connection with her death.

Six-month-old Molly-Mae Wotherspoon was attacked at her mother Claire Riley's home, by an American pit bull on October 3, 2014. She died later in hospital.

Ms Riley, 23, of Daventry, has now been charged with being the owner of a dangerously out of control dog resulting in a death.

Molly-Mae's grandmother, Susan Aucott, 54, has also been charged with the same offence.

They will both appear at Northampton Magistrates' Court on September 21.

Supt Andy Cox, head of the county's operational command unit, said: "This has been a very lengthy and challenging investigation and I would like to thank everyone who has worked on it to ensure that it did finally come to court.

"These incidents are extremely rare and it is the first time in Northants that someone has been charged with this offence.

"It took some careful consideration from experts within CPS to come up with the final decision which, ultimately, sends out a clear message to the owners of these dogs.

"This incident has had tragic consequences for the family that has not ended with the death of the child.

"The events of that night were also extremely distressing for the police officers and paramedics who attended the scene and who showed great professionalism in trying to save Molly-Mae's life."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Northampton, Kettering, Wellingborough & Corby areas and Trevor is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

'LOVING FATHER': Tributes have been pouring in following the death of Justin Wilson

IndyCar driver killed in crash

nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.

British IndyCar driver Justin Wilson has died after being seriously injured by a piece of crash debris during a race in the US.

The father-of-two, who was born in Sheffield before later moving to Northampton to further his motoring career, had been fighting for life in hospital since the crash last Sunday.

The 37-year-old former Formula One driver, who competed for Andretti Autosport, was in the closing laps of a race at Pocono Raceway in Pennsylvania when a competitor crashed in front of him, hurling debris through the front of his car.

He suffered a severe head injury and had been in a critical condition in hospital since the smash.

But on Monday evening, IndyCar Series officials announced that Wilson had passed away.

In a statement from his parents, Keith and Lynne, his wife Julia and his brother Stefan, Wilson was described as a 'loving father' and 'devoted husband'.

Wilson, who had a home in Denver, USA, as well as Northampton, competed for Minardi and Jaguar during the 2003 F1 season.

He had driven in the US since 2004 and was making his 174th IndyCar start in Sunday's race.

He married his wife Julia in December 2006 and the couple have two young daughters.

Wilson's younger brother, Stefan, is also an IndyCar driver, and has posted a series of emotional tweets paying tribute to his older sibling.

He said: "Can't even begin to describe the loss I feel right now. He was my brother, my best friend, my role model and mentor. He was a champion!

"...RIP mate, I'll chuffing miss you."

Andy Burnham gets warm welcome

There was standing room only at the Doddridge Centre in St James as Labour supporters took their chance to put questions to one of the four hopefuls for the Labour leadership contest.

Leftwinger Jeremy Corbyn is ahead in the polls but Mr Burnham told Northampton: "I am now the only candidate that can beat him. I want to unite our party. I have always put the party first."

He said Labour would be letting the country down by choosing a leader who could not win a general election and warned that the last time the party did that (with Michael Foot as leader) "Thatcher drove a bulldozer through Labour communities all over the country".

During the meeting Mr Burnham called for an NHS which included effective social care for the elderly.

Some poignant stories emerged from the audience including a woman who found herself hoping her elderly mother passed away before the money for her care ran out. Another woman revealed that her son who had served with the Coldstream Guards in Afghanistan was now being paid £2.73 an hour retraining as a apprentice on a government scheme.

Mr Burnham was asked by a man who praised his manfesto: "I don't know what Jeremy Corbyn stands for but I know he is passionate about it. Where is your passion?"

Mr Burnham replied with a smile: "I will bring you passion on a rainy afternoon in Northampton."

See our website for our full report on the meeting including pictures and a video of Mr Burnham speaking to the audience.

FAILED SHORTCUT? This is not the first time a driver has attempted to cross the device

Taxi driver lands his cab in bus lane car trap

An unfortunate taxi driver came a-cropper on a bus lane in Northampton after he managed to get caught in a car trap.

The Hackney cab was stuck after straying onto the bus lane section of Hermitage Way, in Wootton, last Friday morning.

It is believed the driver had to call for a recovery truck to help tow the vehicle out of the trap.

It is not the first time this has happened, as nearby residents have complained in the past about other drivers trying to cross the device.

The trap itself is made up of a deep pit with a number of metal 'teeth' protruding from it.

This is used to stop cars using it as a short cut to the A45, and forces them to take another route, which means using the busy Queen Eleanor roundabout. There is also a warning sign before the trap, stating only buses can use the road.

Mum shocked by police video shots

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER AND LAWRENCE JOHN

nicholas bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk
lawrence.john@hpnorthants.co.uk

The mother of an autistic teenager who was allegedly punched four times by a police officer in Northampton has been left 'disgusted' by the incident.

The apparent attack was captured on video, which shows a male officer using what appears to be exessive force to try and restrain 17-year-old Tristan Perry, while another shouts at him to put his hands behind his back.

Speaking to the Northants Herald & Post on Sunday, a day after the paper broke the news, the 17-year-old's mum, Jodie Lamb, said: "I was absolutely disgusted.

"I was very shocked when I saw the video and we have sent the video to Tristan's social worker and are taking it to a solicitor next week.

"I was horrified to see what had happened as previously I had a good relationship with the police and while this might be an isolated incident it has left Tristan feeling very distressed.

"It is made worse as Tristan is autistic and the reason he did not want to be touched was they (the officers) were invading his space.

"Tristan is worried about the implications this could have for him.

"The only thing I am pleased about is there is this video which was shot by Tristan's friend as without it no one might have believed him.

"I am grateful it was videoed."

The incident happened at the house of one of Tristan's friends, and no arrests were made.

Northants Police are aware of the video, which went viral after being posted on Facebook last Thursday.

Assistant Chief Constable Rachel Swann, released the following statement: "We are aware of the short video that is circulating on social media allegedly showing Northamptonshire Police officers.

"We take such allegations extremely seriously and immediately referred the matter to our Professional Standards Department as soon as we became aware of it.

"An investigation is currently underway and as such it would be inappropriate for us to comment further while this takes place."

Toys 'R' Us to open a new store at shopping centre

The leading retailer in children's toys is moving into a Northampton shopping centre, it has been announced.

Toys 'R' Us has signed up at Weston Favell Shopping Centre, and will open a branch on the upper mall in units 41 and 42, where the former Superdrug store used to be.

The branch is due to open next door to Burton's in mid-September, and Toys 'R' Us are already making positions available (at www.toysrus.co.uk/assets/TRU/static/Appform.pdf) for people hoping to work at the store.

Bianca Todd, founder of Community Court Yard and member of Left Unity must have her headphones.

She said: "It's good to talk and I'm often out and about working with young people and trade unionists in Northampton and beyond, so without a shadow of a doubt my one 'must have' are my headphones."

"Community Court Yard does not have a traditional office, so it means that I often need to do business on the move; my headphones allow me to multitask easily."

BLOGGER OF THE WEEK: This film stands by me

Nicola Victoria Buck

Here is Nicola Victoria Buck's latest blog. She is an actress from Northampton who is currently working in California. She writes a monthly blog for the Northants Herald & Post.

To date, the most powerfully influential film and song, for both my life and my art, remains, Stand By Me.

A defining essence that shows not only how beautiful it is when humanity unites, strengthens, grows and moves forward together as a race, but also how poignantly 'necessary' it is.

The film and lyrics awakened me, changed me, and put into words more eloquently than I ever could, what it is to love, to be a friend, and to be a human being.

Whenever there was a sports day as a kid, I always sprinted ahead, eager to cross that victory line, motivated purely and simply by being told that's what I was meant to do, but moments away from claiming that winner's trophy, I'd stop, turn, and wait a few seconds for my friends to catch up. In High School I always chose relay.

I never wanted to cross that winning line alone. If I couldn't take my 'human race' with me, I didn't want to do it. Singularly, winning a race alone has never made much sense to me, and I doubt it ever will.

Even now, having won a number of national and international acting awards, I am profoundly aware I never got there alone – I got there because of the hard work, support, truth and emotional bond with a plethora, and I do mean 'plethora' of others. No artist, is ever, EVER alone.

Yet so many artists, including myself, are so often plagued by a pathological sense of 'being completely alone', ever seeking the purest connection and expression to unite us with this world and to our race.

Acting, arguably one of the most competitive professions in the world is the ultimate paradox. Essentially you need to be so driven, determined, competitive and uniquely talented to smack all the other players out of the ball park whilst simultaneously caring for deep human emotional bonds,

Glad to see 'car trap' issue brought back to surface

With reference to the story 'Taxi driver lands his cab in bus lane car trap, page 11.' This is a daily occurrence as the sat navs direct the traffic through this bus ramp, so everyone attempts to drive over it.

The ramp has ruined many cars with broken parts/tyres laying in the "pit". Nearly every morning I have a bus load of passengers patiently waiting outside my house for the bus ramp to be cleared for the bus to pass through .

This narrow lane was never built for heavy traffic as originally it was for pedestrians when it was the old army barracks. A camera was fitted two years ago to monitor the traffic flow and 881 vehicles had passed through in six days – yet still nothing is done about it.

The lane either needs to be made wider and stronger for all traffic to pass through or to be closed completely . I have witnessed buses reversing back along this narrow lane as the busiest time is between 7.30am and 9.30am when everybody travels to work or school. There will be a serious accident soon as you just can't hear the traffic using this lane due to the niose from the dual carriageway.

This lane is a cut through to the Northampton Girls School at the top of Hermitage way, the new Waitrose, Wootton Primary School, Hardingstone School, to Preston Hedges school and the garden centre.

I have contacted Northampton Borough council, the Highways department of Northants County Council and to Wootton Parish Council,and they think I am just complaining about nothing – but they do not live next door to the bus ramp like I do.

I even had people sending me messages asking if I am bored of complaining as I seem to have nothing better to do. Thank you for bringing this back to the surface again.

Doreen Waite, of Hermitage Way, Wootton, Northampton

A couple of years ago, I was contacted by a local resident about her concerns about traffic using this route as a cut through, when it should only be used by buses.

I asked the police if they could do some enforcement work, warning motorists that they were breaking the law by driving through there.

They then set up some equipment to monitor the amount of traffic that was using the cut through. Despite there being approximately 100 legitimate bus journeys through that route, they recorded 822 vehicles passing through there in one week.

If you have a 4x4 vehicle the trap does not pose any problems. However, if you try to go through there in a small car, you will end up stuck. The signage is inadequate to warn motorists that they should not be driving through there. NCC say that the signage is compliant with Highways Act requirements, but it clearly is not fit for purpose.

I asked the police to carry out some enforcement work in the area, as that would soon stop people using the cut through. Unfortunately, that hasn't happened.

What is needed, and what was originally planned, is for some heavy duty retractable bollards, that are operated from within the buses, so that only they can pass through there.

Liam Costello, Chairman of Wootton Parish Council

Big price tag on Soph's hair

HAIR TODAY: gone tomorrow... Cancer sufferer Sophie Watford raised £3,600 from her charity head shave

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Pop star Jessie J has inspired a cancer-sufferer from Northamptonshire to have her head shaved for charity.

Sophie Watford, 26, has waved goodbye to her hair just two months after being diagnosed with stage three lung cancer.

The Rushden-born personal banker, who now lives in London, has donated her locks to The Little Princess Trust charity, which makes wigs out of real hair.

And her brave move has also raised £3,600, which she is donating to the British Heart Foundation.

But the person that inspired Sophie to go under the scissors in the first place was singer Jessie J, who last year donated her black tresses to the Princess charity for Comic Relief.

Sophie said: "Jessie J showed that you don't need hair to look alright – and she looks beautiful.

"My hair was also falling out anyway, so that's why I decided I'd have the head shave. I just wanted to make a good thing out of a bad situation."

Commenting on when she was diagnosed with cancer, she said: "It was shocking. It was the the day before my best friend's wedding and I had to keep it all in, which was really upsetting.

"But it's one of those things, you just have to keep going."

BANDAGED UP: Footballer's erratic shot broke Alice Woodyatt's wrist

Stray shot breaks girlfriend's wrist

A football ace broke his girlfriend's wrist after he blasted a wild shot over the bar and into the crowd where she was sitting.

Alice Woodyatt had travelled to Sixfields Stadium in Northampton to watch her boyfriend's team, Exeter City, take on Northampton Town in a League Two clash.

The PE teacher was sat behind the goal in the away end with her family, watching her partner David Wheelter warming up ahead of the match, at the time of the accident.

Whilst taking part in shooting practice, David hurdled a shot at goal which whistled over the bar and into the crowd.

But out of all the places the ball could have ended up, it found itself hurtling towards Alice, before hitting her on the wrist.

But remarkably, after having her wrist broken by the shot, she managed to stay and watch the whole match, before finally going to A&E.

To add insult to injury, the Cobblers beat Exeter 3-0.

Store is one in a £million

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

The National Lottery has revealed that a lucky person became a secret millionaire after buying a ticket at a Sainsbury's store in Northampton town centre.

But the mystery deepens even further as all the lottery organisation will reveal is that the anonymous person pocketed at least £1 million with a ticket bought at the store sometime in the last 21 years.

Lottery company Camelot released the minimal information as they handed out promotional posters to stores throughout the UK this month, where winning tickets of £50,000 or more were bought.

A poster reading 'millionaire made in this store' was sent to the Sainsbury's store at the Grosvenor Shopping Centre, and it now sits at the front of the shop.

But when the H&P contacted Camelot to find out more about the winner, a spokesperson was unable to say who had won the big prize.

Nor could the person confirm whether the ticket had been purchased recently, saying that it would just be 'some time in the last 21 years'.

Danny Hayes, aged 39, store manager of Sainsbury's Northampton, said he was 'delighted' when he received the poster last week.

And when asked what went through his mind when he read the poster, he added: "I hope they come back and spend it in here!"

Talking to the H&P about the news, he said: "It is a really good feeling that we have produced a millionaire. It has given us an element of pride.

"It is a little bit like Charlie and the Chocolate Factory – if you use that as an analogy – when you have got that extremely rare opportunity of getting that golden ticket, and then knowing you've had it in your shop!"

Asked how staff at the store reacted to the news, he said: "They are delighted, even though they also wanted the winner to be them! Some of them buy their tickets here every week and don't win, but like I always say, persevere and something will probably happen."

Danny added: "I like to think that this lottery win shows that we are a lucky store."

Still bringing daily

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

FLOATING AROUND: Gary Morton is manager at the Dairy Crest depot in Kingsthorpe

In one of his most famous quotes, American author, Mark Twain said: "The reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated."

And this is true about the rumoured demise of the milkman and the doorstep delivery of our daily pint.

Despite what people may have you think, the milkman is out there and working hard, but we just don't see them in the early hours.

Supermarkets selling milk on the cheap have failedto make them extinct – they fight on.

Gary Morton is the manager at the Dairy Crest depot in Northampton and has 16-years experience in the milk business. He is responsible for the milk getting through to customers across the whole of the county.

The main depot in Kingsthorpe is the base for 11 milkmen, with eight at the depot in Wellingborough and come hail, rain and snow they deliver the milk to customers' doorsteps.

The company also delivers items from its online milk&more service to Coventry, Stratford Upon Avon, Milton Keynes and Peterborough

Gary, 49, said: "The business has changed with time and now people can order from 250 items on line right up until 9pm each evening.

"We go out delivering at 2am in the morning to make sure everyone gets their milk before breakfast.

"Many of the milk&more team have been working as milkmen and women for decades, they are very much part of their local communities and know their customers and areas well.

"We are really proud of our service as we deliver for free and we are for many the eyes and ears of the community.

"I have a doorstep delivery and I like being able to tell the milkman when I will be away and he keeps an eye on the house during his route.

"It is this security aspect which people like. What people also like is the personal service and having a milkman deliver their milk six days a week."

Now a call has been launched to all milk&more customers in Northampton

FEEL GOOD FACTOR

Good living, getting out there and getting on with it in Northants

Mr Maker on his way

Some crafty children got the chance to meet their favourite artist, Mister Maker, who popped into the Royal & Derngate theatre in Northampton on Saturday.

Friends Emma Knight, Izzy Darvill and Bonnie Scoles, from Headlands Primary School, got to do some colouring-in with Mr Maker and had their pictures taken with the TV star.

The CBeebies presenter was in town to get ready for his new nationwide touring show Mister Maker & The Shapes Live, which will kick off in Northampton on September 5 and 6.

The show is packed with loads of arty fun, fantastic songs and there's even a big 'make' for everybody to take part in. Joining Mister Maker on stage will be a supporting cast including Tocky, the talkative cuckoo clock, and The Shapes.

For those of you unfamiliar with Mister Maker, he makes fun art and craft projects with the contents of the 'doodle drawers', including a toy made in a minute and something arty you can frame.

After saying hello at the theatres, Mister Maker went on to say hello to children at Northampton's Riverside Hub play centre.

Ideal for ages two to eight, Mister Maker & The Shapes Live comes to the Derngate stage on September 5-6, with performances at 10am, 1pm and 4pm both days. Tickets cost £14.50 and can be booked in person at the theatre, or by calling Box Office on 01604 624811 or online at www.royalandderngate.co.uk.

Disability website

The launch of the first website dedicated to the needs and aspirations of people with learning disability was launched at Cotton's Farmhouse – at the same time as the Caring & Sharing Trust also launched their new "Meet the Ambassadors" project. The Trust Director Caroline Scattergood led the Caring & Sharing Ambassadors and the audience in uplifting songs.

You can access the website at northamptonshirelearningdisability.org and the team hope you will email on admin@cottonsfarmhouse.org with any suggestions – or even congratulations! The Ambassadors project features many of the people with learning disability who attend the Caring & Sharing Day Centre who will be pleased to invite you to join them for coffee or will be equally delighted to come round to your workplace and have coffee with you!

Joining in the proceedings were Cllr Roger Clarke, Chairman of South Northants Council; Cllr Deanna Eddon, Chairman of Daventry District Council; Cllr Mary Markham, Leader of Northampton Borough Council.

Olympian takes tea with homeowners

Northampton retirees and their relatives joined Olympian Dame Mary Peters CH DBE RNR for afternoon tea last week to celebrate summer in style at McCarthy and Stone's Retirement Living development, Westonia Court. After a guided tour of the Wellingborough Road development, the former Olympic champion, who won the pentathlon gold medal at the 1972 Olympic Games, marked the occasion with a talk on her experiences as an Olympian and sporting ambassador.

Dame Mary said: "It was a pleasure to join the homeowners for afternoon tea and to meet and chat with people from the local area."

Tougher on your mind than your body?

H&P Editor Steve Scoles on his quest for fitness and health helped by Trilogy Gym

When you're doing the fitness thing on your own, I think it must be human nature to be tougher on yourself mentally than physically.

You will put yourself through all kinds of guilt about a cheeky pint or a handful of cookies, maybe even a bag full.

But typically you won't put yourself through quite the same amount of physical pain to burn the calories off.

That's where a trainer like Martin comes in.

He's pretty good at taking the mental pain off your shoulders but getting you to put more effort into the physical pain.

Ten press ups is worth more to your fitness than ten seconds of biscuit guilt.

Working away without him while he rests up on doctors orders has been predictably slack but I have still been going.

You often hear the psychological battles gym goers have with themselves being discussed in the changing rooms.

Someone says hello to a familiar face...

Person A: "Hello mate, haven't seen you for a while. You still coming down then?"

Person B: "Yeah, I keep meaning to but you know how it is, it's fitting it round work."

Person A: "Yeah."

Person B: "You get to the end of the day at the office, you're knackered and someone says let's go down the pub..."

I'm not a big drinker myself but I'm still battling to keep the middle age spread under control.

Even if you do like a tipple, as Martin said this week (via Facebook messenger):

"It's the keep going attitude that gets results."

Project planned in memory of dancer

SPECIAL TRIBUTE: The project hopes to create more stories like dancer Jonathan Ollivier's

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

A project to support young people with poor access to the arts is being planned for Northampton – the hometown of a dancer who was killed hours before a performance.

Jonathan Ollivier, 38, died earlier this month in a motorbike accident ahead of the final show of Matthew Bourne's The Car Man at Sadler's Wells Theatre.

In a tribute to the popular ballet dancer, Re:Bourne – the charitable-arm of Matthew Bourne's New Adventures dance company – is now putting together a project in Northampton.

A fund has been set up to raise money to bring the project alive, which would be aimed at young people with poor access to the arts.

Re:Bourne Director James Mackenzie-Blackman told BBC Northampton he had met with the Ollivier family, who were 'really thrilled' the company wanted to create a project in his hometown.

"Jonny discovered dance unexpectedly – we want to create more stories like that in Northampton and if we can do that, it will be a very positive legacy," he said.

"It's in the very early stages but we hope to go into communities where there is either poor uptake of arts or difficulty accessing them."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Force for good

Northamptonshire Police are celebrating after passing a landmark total of 500 special constables. And thanks to the achievement, it now means the force has the largest ratio of special constables to regular officers anywhere in England and Wales.

Last meal served

The popular Seafood Cafe in Northampton has served its final meal and closed down. The eatery announced the news last week in a note it posted on its door, which said a 'dramatic downturn in business' had forced the closure. You can read the note online.

Egypt in appeal to buy statue

BY NICHOLAS BIEBER
nicholas.bieber@hpnorthants.co.uk

Egypt has launched a stinging attack on Northampton Borough Council for selling the Sekhemka statue, describing the move as 'an indelible stain on the museum's reputation'.

The strong words also come at the same time the country has announced a fundraising campaign to re-buy the 4,500 year-old statue, which was sold at auction last year for £15.76 million.

Egypt's Antiquities Minister Mamdouh Al Damaty held a press conference last Saturday to officially halt all dealings with Northampton Museum over its 'unethical role" in the sale of the historic statue.

He said: "The sale of the statue is an indelible stain on the museum's reputation and is a moral crime against world heritage in general and the Egyptian heritage in particular."

The minister then called on Egyptian businessmen and Egyptian expats in the UK to initiate a serious fundraising campaign to re-buy the statue, otherwise 'the irreplaceable masterpiece will never to be seen on public display again.'

A temporary export ban to stop the statue leaving the country expired on July 29.

However, the Government later announced the export ban deadline has been extended to midday tomorrow.

Ghosthunters' trailer

A pair of Northampton ghost hunters have released a video of the opening credits to their new paranormal investigation TV show.

Michael York and Alex Duggan, who together make paranormal research team UK Haunted, are filming their first ghost hunting series, in which they travel around the UK's most haunted locations.

The popular duo, who have together racked up big following of 80,000 people on social media, released a video on Twitter last weekend of the opening titles to the show.

A graveyard, whispering voices, and stuttering scenes of what to expect in the show features in the clip, which you can watch at www.northampton-news-hp.co.uk

Call to clean up town

The major gateways into Northampton are looking 'untidy and dirty', and 'not enough' is being done to improve them - according to the Labour group on Northampton Borough Council.

The group says drivers coming into the town are being greeted with 'unclean and grim' highways, grass verges and parks.

A call for action is now being made by the group, for Northants County Council, Northampton Borough Council and Enterprise to 'start working closely on this issue'.

Responding to the comments made by the opposition group, Councillor Mary Markham, Leader of Northampton Borough Council, said activities are being organised throughout September to address the aspects of town centre cleanliness.

What Your Agent Has To Say

New Knight in town centre

Edward Knight Estate Agents are delighted to announce the opening of our new Northampton office.

After months of careful planning we are now officially open for business in Northampton and we are delighted to say that we have already sold three houses.

Situated in the heart of Northampton town centre in a prominent position within the Northampton Town & County Club, our new office can be found at 9 George Row.

Whilst we are up against many established local estate agents in the town, we believe that our blend of experience, professionalism and enthusiasm will see us quickly become the estate agent of choice for the people of Northampton.

With the increasing strength of internet property portals, we believe that in a large town like Northampton our model of having one centralised office in the town centre is the future of the industry.

Manager Andrew Denny said: "We have a prominent town centre location in the heart of Northampton and experienced sales staff to sell your home and take those stresses away.

"However, the biggest advantage is that by having one centralised location we don't have the overheads associated with having lots of offices to pay for and we can therefore pass these savings on to our customers whilst retaining all of the service levels that you would expect from a busy and experienced Estate Agency".

■ For more information on our service contact Edward Knight Estate Agents Northampton on 01604 632433.

CURTAIN CALL: The Irchester Players at rehearsal for their next production

Irchester players up for Musical Mayhem

BY LAWRENCE JOHN

The show is a fast-paced comedy, with songs from musicals old and new, including Oklahoma, Fame, Sunset Boulevard, Spamalot, Chicago, Hairspray, the Producers, Mamma Mia, Avenue Q and the Rocky Horror Picture Show.

This play is written and directed by Dan Wainwright and has a cast of 35, with a full range of ages.

Irchester Players is an enthusiastic local Amateur Dramatic Society, which has been in existence for 39 years.

Shipping Wars

If FIFA did a television programme it would have to be Shipping Wars. It is the reality TV show without any reality.

Reality long since left with the fat lady and is so far on the way to the airport you won't catch it.

Shipping Wars on the History channel concerns a group of four individuals and one couple who bid online to transport different loads from one part of the USA to another in a set time period.

The trouble is they seem the only ones bidding for these loads and the only ones who win. It has got a touch of Storage Wars about it in this respect.

The fix is in and it smells like a dead fish in the sunlight.

A lot of the programme is clearly staged 'just for television' and this is unbelievable as it is so bad.

It is car crash television on a huge scale – this is a motorway pile up of Ben Hur proportions.

And yet I watch it and tolerate it. Maybe I do this as it is so bad and I wonder how rotten it can get.

All-new Jaguar XF leads the way for business cars

Available to order now, the all-new XF will be priced from £32,300.00 in UK.

This latest Jaguar XF brings an unrivalled blend of design, luxury, technology and efficiency to lead the business car segment, underpinned by class-leading driving dynamics and refinement and impressive total cost of ownership.

The dynamic, coupé-like design is formed around Jaguar's aluminium-intensive architecture and combines the outstanding proportions, elegant surfaces and perfect lines which define all Jaguar cars, with a longer wheelbase, more interior space and exceptionally low aerodynamic drag yet in a lower and shorter body than the car it replaces.

The cabin is a seamless blend of contemporary luxury materials and finishes, traditional Jaguar craftsmanship and state-of-the art technology, with features such as a reconfigurable 12.3-inch TFT instrument cluster, laser head-up display and the InControl Touch Pro premium infotainment system – the all-new XF is the most connected Jaguar ever.

SPEED LIMITER: The new XF recognises speed limits and can change speed

The all-new XF retains its predecessor's core attributes, but uses Jaguar's aluminium-intensive architecture to enable weight savings of up to 190kg – making the 163PS diesel model 80kg lighter than the nearest competitor.

The light, stiff body is also fundamental to the all-new XF's superb vehicle dynamics. Adopting Electric Power Assisted Steering (EPAS) maintains Jaguar's leadership in steering feel but also reduces fuel consumption by up to two per cent and three per cent for diesel and petrol models respectively.

All-Surface Progress Control, developed for low-speed driving in adverse conditions, automatically manages the brakes and the throttle to deliver the best possible traction, enabling the car to pull away smoothly and without drama: the driver only has to steer.

The traffic sign recognition system brings Jaguar's first application of an intelligent speed limiter. Once set, the system monitors speed limit signs, compares them with navigation data and, when a change in speed limit is posted, can regulate vehicle speed by either smoothly accelerating the car up to a higher limit or slowing it down to a lower limit.

BMW 1 Series

Take a look inside...

- From £20,245
- Emissions: 99-188g/km
- 0-62mph 6.8s
- Top speed 138mph
- (combined) 62.8 mpg

BMW's 1 Series gets sleeker styling, a range of more economical engines including an all-wheel drive diesel and a refreshed interior. There's still the brilliant M135i to head up the range, but at the other end there's a super-economical three-cylinder 116d that can manage more than 83mpg.

As well as the usual quest to drive down emissions, BMW has also done its best to sneakily add a little more poke under the bonnet where possible. The 1 Series petrol-engined range starts with the 1.5-litre three cylinder 118i with 136PS and the 1.6-litre 120i with 170PS. Then there's the 2.0-litre 218PS 125i, and at the top of the range is the ferocious little M135i, with a three-litre straight six that cranks out 326PS. Pedal this one hard and 62mph flashes by in just 4.9 seconds.

The biggest change has come in the diesel range. The 1.5-litre three-cylinder engine in the improved BMW 116d generates 116PS and 270Nm of torque, an increase of 10Nm compared to its predecessor. A new four-cylinder diesel engine is offered in three states of tune: the 118d generates 150PS, the 120d has 190PS, and the 125d, with its multi-stage turbocharging, cranks out 224PS, enabling this model to reach 62mph from rest in just 6.3 seconds.

One consequence of running a transmission tunnel through what has been a rather compact hatch has been rather compromised accommodation. That hasn't really changed too much. The 1 Series is still a bit more cramped in the back than something like a Golf. Nevertheless, the cabin is a good deal better looking than most rivals, with a revision to the dashboard minor controls.

The exterior styling is a bit neater, especially at the front. For the first time, full LED headlamps with low and main beam have been added to the options list, with Adaptive LED headlamps a further option.

Slowly but surely, BMW are excising each and every flaw in the 1 Series' makeup. While it's still not the most elegant looking hatch on the market, it's no longer conspicuously weird-looking. You could even call the latest car handsome, which would be a first for a 1 Series hatch. Where this generation scores is in building in so much value for the customer.

The Next Generation Kia Sportage

Kia Motors will reveal its all-new Kia Sportage for the first time globally on 15 September, at the 2015 Frankfurt International Motor Show. Entering its fourth-generation, the all-new Sportage features a bold, progressive design, which exudes power and agility from every angle. The dynamic compact SUV styling creates visual harmony out of the tension between bold, precise feature lines and dramatically-sculptured bodywork. Inside, the all-new Sportage marries simple, modern style with rich material quality for Kia's most refined, highest-quality cabin to date. With the design of the new model led by the brand's European design centre – located in Frankfurt – the all-new Sportage represents the future face of Kia.

New Diesel Engine For Jeep Cherokee

Changes to the popular Cherokee range have just been announced by Jeep, with details of a powerful new engine, offering an augmented range with better fuel economy, greater torque and improved standard content. The current two-litre diesel 140 hp manual versions have been joined by a modern 2.2-litre MultiJet engine, available with 185 hp and 200 hp outputs, and offering a significantly wider spread of torque from low rpm, greater power, improved performance and better fuel economy than the out-going two-litre 170 hp automatic engine. The new 2.2 engine is already Euro 6 compliant. Available only with Jeep's segment-first nine-speed automatic gearbox, and matched to the Active-Drive four-wheel-drive systems, all new Cherokee 2.2 versions are packed with equipment. The new 2.2 MultiJet II engine, which places Jeep Cherokee towards the top of its class for performance, refinement and true efficiency, can now be ordered in the UK. Two power variants are available: 200 hp and 185 hp.

New D-MAX Special Edition Hits The Market

Cobblers shown 'ultimate respect' by Magpies hungry for silverware

FOOTBALL

BY JAMES AVERILL
sport@lsnmedia.co.uk

Cobblers boss Chris Wilder believes Newcastle United showed Northampton Town the 'ultimate respect' by naming a strong line-up in their 4-1 win over Town.

Former England manager Steve McClaren demonstrated his intent to win this tie by including new £12million signing Florian Thauvin, and first team regulars Ayoze Perez, Daryl Janmaat and Cheick Tiote in their line-up.

Premier League clubs can often name weakened sides for League Cup encounters with lower division sides, but after 60 years without a trophy Toon signalled their intent to give the cup a right good go.

The Premier League quality was too much for the Cobblers, who put in a brave performance but came unstuck against the impressive Thauvin - who scored and laid on the other three on his home debut.

And for boss Wilder, the fact that Newcastle were so willing to put their big stars in, sandwiched between vital Premier League games against Manchester United and Arsenal, was a sign of big respect.

Wilder said: "My first thought was that there has been a lot of debate in Newcastle after what the chairman and manager have said about team selection, and how they're going to go about cup competitions.

"I thought they paid us the ultimate respect in terms of the team they picked and the subs on the bench. Quite a lot of these early rounds are filled with under 21 players – and they certainly didn't have any of them tonight.

"We were up against it at times, but look at the unbelievable quality we're up against. The right winger they've just paid £12million for and they're bringing on players like Mitrovic and Colback. We were bang up against it.

"We had to have a lot of things go our way to get through, the biggest thing being the attitude of Newcastle and hoping that that's a little bit off. But I have to say that their attitude was absolutely spot on in taking us seriously."

Wilder's analogy of being 'bang up against it' rather summed up the disastrous first six minutes of this encounter, after which Town found themselves 2-0 down. Staggeringly though they pulled one back in the ninth minute through Marc Richards' penalty after Cheick Tiote handled in the area.

But despite being well in it for a large part of the game, two goals midway through the second half from Janmaat and Mike Williamson sealed a convincing win for the home side.

"We got off to an awful start," admitted Wilder. "But we got ourselves off the canvas and then had an opportunity to get back in the game with a fantastic free kick to make it 2-2. But we're a little bit disappointed in a couple of the goals we conceded, but you could also say that they were magnificent balls is.

"They are small margins. How the first goal is scored (by Thauvin) I'll never know, David Buchanan had him marked left, right and centre and the boy has done a Bruce Lee karate kick into the corner – that's the quality that they showed in the vital moments.

"We had our moments but didn't take advantage of them. We didn't quite pick that final pass – but I've got no complaints about my team and the way they went about it tonight."

For Wilder there were a number of improvements from Saturday's 2-0 reverse against Plymouth, and he wants those positives taken forward to Saturday, when Town return to League Two action in the more humble surroundings of the Crown Ground of Accrington Stanley.

Wilder said: "We looked more like a team than we did on Saturday, and we looked bright in certain areas and we had to withstand a lot of pressure, but we were in the game until the fourth goal.

"We've got a lot of spirit and hopefully Saturday was a one-off, because they've not shown signs of that throughout pre-season or tonight. We gave it a right go. Now we have to take that forward."

And Wilder rounded off his post-match briefing by paying tributes to the army of Cobblers fans that made the trip up the A1 this evening. Nearly a thousand turned up, many decked in pink, and undoubtedly out-sang the famous Gallowgate end.

He said: "We have to say a big thank you to the fans, and all our players to a man went over to the supporters at the end. It was an outstanding backing we had, and this is a hell of a long way to come on a Tuesday, so to take a thousand supporters was first class. And hopefully they go away with good memories as we gave it a go."

COMMENT: Brave Cobblers come home with credit

GRIPPED BY THE COBBLERS

BY TOM REED
sport@lsnmedia.co.uk

There was to be no repeat of Cobblers' Liverpool Capital One Cup heroics as they went down to a Florian Thauvin inspired 4-1 defeat at St James' Park. Yet, Northampton return from the North East with credit having never looked overawed in an end-to-end match in one of football's true cathedrals.

Newcastle manager Steve McClaren is taking the League Cup seriously, with the Magpies not touching any silverware for 46 years and his side reflected that. Ex-Marseille man Thauvin looked the pick of the bunch, forming an attacking midfield trio with Dutch International Siem De Jong and highly rated youngster Rolando Aarons. Former Sixfields favourite Ivan Toney had to make do with a place on the bench with Ayoze Perez starting up front.

Thauvin's inclusion put the tie into perspective as the ex-L'OM winger's £12 million transfer fee from the French club covers the entire loan granted for Northampton's stadium redevelopment. Throw in Daryl Janmaat, Massadio Haïdara and Joan Gouffran, who also started for United and Newcastle's fringe eleven could account for Northampton's entire football operation for the next few years.

Yet, the early rounds of the League Cup are often a leveller where well-drilled lower-league sides can close the gap against Premier League squad players. Newcastle, however, weren't settling for that and took the lead within 3 minutes as Thauvin stuck out a boot to volley home a beautifully presented Haïdara left-wing cross.

The approach to St James' is a steep walk from the river Tyne and Cobblers faced an uphill battle when falling two goals behind five minutes later. Northampton boss Ian Sampson, who had one over Roy Hodgson at Anfield in 2010 would have been tearing his hair out at Cobblers' defensive weakness as De Jong headed home unmarked from a whipped Thauvin free kick.

But single goals can affect the motivational balance of cup ties and Northampton struck back in the 10th minute via a Marc Richards penalty. Cheick Tiote, one of Newcastle's players off the pace, handled a deep cross aimed at Rod McDonald with referee David Coote upsetting the Magpies by pointing to the spot.

Richards has missed various penalties already this season but breathed life into Cobblers' hope of an upset by sending the ball down the middle and past a diving Karl Darlow. United stopper Darlow is Northampton born and grandson of ex-Cobblers and Magpies Ken Leek but could get nowhere near Richards' spot kick.

Cue an unexpected period of domination for the away side which nearly saw a Northampton equaliser when Richards' diving header went narrowly wide. "We're gonna score in a minute" chanted Town's Shoe Army and you get the sense that they would. However, Northampton's roving 4-2-3-1 counter attacking often fell short at the last moment with stray passes from the likes of Joel Byrom hampering periods of good possession.

Despite labouring to break Northampton down in central midfield, Newcastle has a knife through butter silkiness on the break with Thauvin putting in a man of the match performance of some style.

Indeed, Thauvin's lay-off for Newcastle's third was beautifully balanced and teed up Janmaat for a cute side-footed finish ten minutes after the restart. Ex-Cobblers manager and United Chief Scout Graham Carr would have been pleased for his new acquisition and further enthused when Thauvin capped his third assist of the night when sending a cross plum onto the head of Mike Williamson to head past Ryan Clarke for United's clincher.

Thauvin received a deserved standing ovation when being substituted for Aleksander Mitrovic on 65 minutes. That was bettered however, in the Northampton section of the Leazes Stand at least, with the introduction of "one of our own" Ivan Toney with ten minutes remaining.

Steelbacks champing at bit for Finals Day

Northamptonshire captain Alex Wakely is looking forward to experiencing the 'biggest day in English domestic cricket' for a second time as he prepares to lead the county into Finals Day of the NatWest T20 Blast.

Wakely skippered the Steelbacks to glory at Edgbaston in 2013 when they thrashed Surrey by 102 runs thanks in no small part to David Willey's extraordinary efforts with bat and ball.

At the same venue on Saturday, Northants face a tough test in their semi-final against holders the Birmingham Bears, who are playing on their own ground.

But Wakely claims every player is champing at the bit in anticipation and feels their experiences of two years ago can hold them in good stead.

He said: "For me, Finals Day is the biggest day in the domestic season, the whole glitz and the glamour of it and it's been an amazing performance for us to get there.

"To be there is one of the best experiences I've been through and we want to get back there as quickly as we can.

"I'll say that Thursday or Friday are where the nerves will start kicking in - that's when people will start to get really excited.

"The positive thing on that is we've got so many players who have been there before and players who have won domestic competitions before.

"That can only help to guide some of the younger guys through the day as I'm sure there'll be a few nerves from those going in there for the first time."

Northants' small squad has been relatively injury-free for most of the season but in a case of very bad timing, it has suddenly been hit with knocks to several of their players.

Rob Newton broke a thumb against Leicestershire in the County Championship and will miss out on Saturday while Northants are sweating on the fitness of Steven Crook.

The all-rounder has been receiving intensive treatment to his ankle after being stretchered off in the same match and there are also concerns over Adam Rossington, Graeme White and Olly Stone.

On the niggles, Wakely said: "What we're trying to do is take things day by day rather than jump to conclusions and the real assessment will be on Thursday when we will have to make some final decisions.

"Adam played a club game on Saturday and got through that okay while Graeme was running on Monday and bowling, which was nice to see.

"Stoney has had a scan on his knee just to check there was nothing different from his previous scan but he seems pretty positive and I'm sure he'll be in one those -45 degree cryo chambers along with Crooky!"

THE EQUINE INDUSTRY

The equine industry is one of the busiest in the leisure sector, combining gold medal winners at the London Olympics with 19,000 horse businesses covering training and coaching, therapy, livery and sports horse production.

Horse riding is more popular than rugby, fishing or cricket with over a million horses being kept with 4.3 million horse riders. It is an industry with many opportunities and successful employees will have excellent team working and communication skills as well a passion for the health and welfare of horses and their riders.

ANIMAL MANAGEMENT

There are 24 million pets in the UK and the animal industry has recently seen an increase in people keeping more exotic and unusual species such as chameleons and skunks. To keep us safe when caring for our pets or going to the zoo, the laws on keeping domestic and captive animals have recently changed, with animal welfare a priority.

All zoos in the UK have to be licensed to protect both visitors and the various species that live in zoos. Imagine how much time is spent taking the annual inventory – counting everything from lions to spiders!

Kerrie Ashford – Animal Management

"Moulton College has given me lots of work experience opportunities that have resulted in being offered paid employment, helping me to progress to a career in the industry."

Dana Moody - Animal Management

"Moulton College has a very motivating environment, providing all of the necessary experience I needed in order for me to get into university and complete a degree in veterinary nursing."

SPORT

Sport contributes billions of pounds to the economy each year and Britain's enhanced reputation on the world stage following the London Olympics has opened up numerous career pathways. This industry has a bright future within the Golden Decade of Sport, with the UK hosting some major sporting events; the 2015 Rugby World Cup, Athletics World Championships, Cricket World Cup and many other international sports events.

The sports industry will be pivotal in supporting and promoting a healthy Britain by working closely with the NHS to actively promote healthier ways of living, which in turn creates a more cost effective health service. Supporting over 450,000 jobs in the UK, sport has become a £20bn industry but experts believe this is just the beginning as more money flows into the fast growing sector; it's an exciting time to embark upon a career within the sport and active leisure industry.

Jess Anderson – Sport and Exercise Sciences

"Studying sport at Moulton has allowed me to compete at an elite level in skiing, enabling me to attend the European Youth Olympics and become the British U18 Champion."

Tim Cardall – Sport Development (Rugby)

Tim is part of the rugby academy at Moulton College. He was awarded a professional playing contract with Northampton Saints and was able to play for England U18s at the European Championships.

THE BUILDING INDUSTRY

Jared Hoskin – Bricklaying

"The facilities are great and I love how practical the courses are. There's also a range of industry experience opportunities that will really help me to expand my CV."

There has never been a better time to consider a career in construction. In counties such as Northamptonshire there are ambitious plans for 37,000 houses to be built by 2021, which will create significant job opportunities in a sector that already employs over 2.5 million people.

Demand for construction workers is high and skills shortages are emerging, with contractors already reporting difficulties recruiting on-site trades such as carpenters, bricklayers and plumbers. However you don't just get a job in construction, you get a career. There are opportunities to develop your managerial skills, start your own business, work internationally or become a master craftsman. There are good prospects for career enhancement and excellent earning potential across all roles.

CONSTRUCTION FUTURES

Claire Evans – Civil Engineering

"My lecturers are all really friendly and approachable. They are always willing to offer extra support and help when you need it."

The construction industry is evolving into a fast-paced, technologically-advanced, exciting and innovative industry. The increase in off-site manufacturing of buildings and components is resulting in an increased reliance on computer generation and modelling, with many projects being constructed in a virtual world before being built on site.

The future could be even more exciting, with the advent of 3-D printing of both construction components and even whole houses; last month a company in China printed the components for a two storey house in under a week and assembled it on site in 3 hours. It is a certainty that building sites will look very different in the future… what an exciting time to enter the industry!

DYNAMIC AGRICULTURE

Did you know...?

The National Farmers Union recently produced data to show that Northamptonshire farmers generate £223m each year and employ over 4000 people in the county. The barley produced in Northamptonshire would brew 615 million pints of beer and bake 543 million loaves of bread, making agriculture an exciting and vibrant industry in the county.

In these highly technical times, the agriculture industry has taken the lead in using initiatives such as robotic milking machines, GPS technology in crop management and sophisticated nutrition systems. This is the industry for a challenging and sustainable career if you have a passion for science, technology and making a contribution to world health.

Tom Compton – Countryside Management

"I love the practical side of my course and Moulton College has taught me a range of skills that have helped me to excel and take pride in my work."

Ryan Butler – Countryside Management

"The support from the team has helped me develop a wide range of skills and I am already looking at diversifying these to look at the entrepreneurial side of running an estate."

Fiona Willetts – Horticulture

Fiona represented the College at the Chartered Institute of Horticulture's Young Horticulturalist of the Year competition, successfully achieving second place at the Regional Final. She also worked for Matthew Wilson on his Royal Bank of Canada Garden at the 2015 Chelsea Flower Show, which earned an RHS Silver Gilt medal.
